Text 2

Satellite Space-eye does not look like the satellites of the 1980's. It has large wings that gather solar power. The power is for the motor. It keeps the satellite in the same place above the earth. All the big farmers in the area have paid for the cost of Satellite Space-eye.

Constanza is one of those farmers. His home computer makes the connection with Satellite Space-eye. He asks to see a picture of the field in the south-west corner of his farm. The picture appears on a TV screen. It is a picture of a green wheat field. Everything looks fine, he then asks the computer to show the same area, but in colours. The colours show the different temperatures in the field. He knows healthy wheat plants will all be green. The TV screen blinks and a beautiful picture appears. It has many shades of blue, red, and green.

Constanza looks closely at the large red spot near the middle of the wheat field. He knows that something is wrong in the wheat field. The red colour means the spot is warmer than its surroundings. It may be due to lack of moisture or not enough nutrients in the soil. Insects eating the wheat can also show a red spot.

Constanza tells the computer to tell him more about the warm spot. The computer points out that the problem is a shortage of nitrogen in the soil. He asks the computer to predict the harvest if he adds the fertilizer. He then tells the computer the current market price for wheat. He also tells the price of the fertilizer. He asks for a costing. He wants to know if it will give him a profit to add the fertilizer. The computer gives him the answer. Is it a science fiction? No, it is happening now.

UN-SMA-04-23

The text tells about ...

- A. Constanza and his wheat field
- B. the use of Satellite Space - eye in farming
- C. the blue, red, and green colours on the TV screen

Text 3

Dear Rossa,

I am a guy, twenty-eight years old. I have a problem with a girl friend. She is twenty five years old. We have been dating each other for years, since we were high school students. Now we have jobs. I feel very sure that we love each other. Now it is time for me to get married. Unfortunately, her parents never approve of our relationship ever since the very first time. My family, anyhow, does not really mind. At first I thought my girl friend had the power to defend our love. But then she surrendered. She loves, me and she loves her family, too. On the one hand she said, "I'll be happy if my family is happy." It means she had to get approval from her parents.

For this^ I was shocked. My heart was broken. She ended our relationship just at the time when I was ready to marry her. When I was with her, we were very happy. We had a lot in common and there were no conflicts. The truth was, we separated only because of her parents. They want her to marry her cousin, her aunt's son (this is one of the traditions in the Karonese).

For the time being I am very upset. When I miss her I call her. Then we can eat together, talk together for hours. We act like elating because she loves me, too. The real problem is, she cannot refuse what her parents want.

So, should I forget my girl friend, the only one that I truly love? Or else, should I just wait, and dream that one day she will be back to me?

Rio N., Padang

Dear Rio,

You call her your girl friend, but she has chosen her own way. For this reason I'd, say that there is nothing you can do except forget her and go on with your normal life. Hopefully you can find another and live happily forever.

Rossa

Text 4

Uday and Qusay are killed and the delighted British and American governments suggest that Iraq will be a safer place. Yes, the Iraqis may well feel safer. And - with the dictator's brutal sons out of the way forever more confident about continuing the resistance against the American occupiers.

Shortly before their deaths were announced, Richard Gephardt, Democrat presidential hopeful, delivered a blistering attack on Bush's foreign policy which was driven, he said, by "machismo" and "arrogant unilateralism". Bush, he continued, had treated U.S. allies "like so many flies on America's windshield". He added: "Foreign policy isn't a John Wayne movie."

The attack on the villa where Saddam's sons were hiding might be seen as driving home the point; Instead, the announcement that they had been killed by the U.S. troops in a shoot-out is welcomed by Tony Blair as "great news".

UN-SMA-04-31

- A. Uday and Qusay who killed U.S. troops
- B. Uday and Qusay who are killed by U.S. troops
- C. Richard Gephardt who attacked Bush's domestic policy
- D. the attack on the villa where Saddam Husein was hiding
- E. Tony Blair who is welcomed by Saddam's sons, Uday and Qusay

UN-SMA-04-32

The main idea of paragraph 3 is that ...

- A. U.S. troops killed Saddam in the attack on the villa.
- B. Uday and Qusay had killed U.S. troops and Tony Blair.
- C. Tony Blair attacked the villa where Saddam's sons were hiding.
- D. Saddam was killed by Tony Blair and U.S. in Saddam's sons' villa.
- E. The announcement of Saddam's son's death is welcomed by Tony Blair.

UN-SMA-04-3

Which statement is correct according to the text?

- A. John Wayne movie was presented to Bush arrogantly.
- B. Tony Blair received the "great news" of Bush and Gephardt's death.
- C. John Wayne was a movie star who attacked the villa of Saddam's sons.
- D. Richard Gephardt attacked Bush's foreign policy after Uday and Qusay's death.
- E. The news of Uday and Qusay's death made the British and American government pleased.
